Clearly defined text labels – that explain the action - go a long way in enabling the user to predict what will happen as a result of their action. Compare the two labels below:

The one on the right has labels that are meaningful; it uses active verbs. This combination allows the user to easily predict the outcome.